AT&T IS DIFFERENT

Every single one of us is distinct. Millennial. Boomer. Latina. Asian. Transgender. Techie. Military veteran. Whatever words you choose to describe us, one thing is certain: AT&T would not be the powerful, innovative company we are today without every single one of us.
There are two simple reasons why AT&T places such a high value on a diverse and inclusive workforce: it makes us a stronger competitor and a better place to build a career.

Our employees reflect the world. They come from different cultures, practice different religions, speak different languages and represent different genders and sexual identities. That diversity of perspectives and experiences enables us to move quicker, innovate faster and deliver the solutions our customers really want.

By the same token, our inclusive culture makes sure that all these different voices are heard, respected and have a chance to succeed. In a very real sense, our commitment to diversity and inclusion creates a virtuous cycle that benefits everyone.

I am very proud of our company’s commitment to diversity. Even though we may all be different, those differences don’t divide us at AT&T. They make us stronger.

In the pages that follow, you’ll see how and why that is.

Randall Stephenson
On behalf of the more than 220,000 diverse and talented people of AT&T, thank you for your interest in our diversity and inclusion story. It’s one we’re proud to share, and I hope that as you get to know us through these pages, you’ll appreciate why.

As our company’s chief diversity officer, I had the opportunity in 2017 to share our story with many people, from soon-to-be college graduates looking for a company where they can achieve their fullest potential, to congressional committees seeking to better understand the myriad challenges and opportunities spanning corporate America’s diversity efforts today. In every case, I was proud not only to list our many achievements, but to describe the ways we continue to raise the bar.

One thing that stands out as I reflect on the past year is the impact AT&T had in promoting real understanding, versus mere tolerance, regarding diversity. Our employees embraced our chairman’s message from fall 2016 and took concrete steps to make a difference. Our 12 employee resource groups took the lead, and I’m proud of how they moved us all forward. The ripple effect on our communities is real. We also built on the tolerance-to-understanding message by acknowledging the need to get outside our echo chambers and to avoid binary thinking. That’s a huge focus among our employees at AT&T this year.

Our goal is to set – and to continually raise – the bar. We did that in 2017. Enjoy, and if you’re interested in a career at AT&T, please learn more at https://www.attjobs/.

Corey Anthony
AT&T people are smart. We’re engaged. We’re unafraid to celebrate the differences that make us strong. Whatever we look like, wherever we’re from, we are remarkable. Our people, our community, our customers, our suppliers – all reflect the world in which we live and work. In the world of AT&T, every person is important, and everyone has a voice.

We are a corporate pioneer on the journey from tolerance to understanding, a journey which began with our company’s leaders. We are learning to move beyond binary thinking – a system of false logic that recognizes only extreme, mutually exclusive options – to recognize that diversity is the first step toward inclusion. As we encourage authenticity in every encounter, we allow people to be their best. And when we work together in our strength, we become stronger together. Each of us strengthens all of us.

In 2017, Randall Stephenson joined more than 150 CEOs in signing the CEO Action for Diversity & Inclusion Pledge, the largest CEO-driven business commitment to advance diversity and inclusion in the workplace. By participating, CEOs pledge to promote a workplace that respects and welcomes diverse perspectives and experiences.

Signatories represent more than 50 industries, all 50 U.S. states and millions of global employees.

Each CEO committed to three goals:

1. Create and maintain workplaces with environments of trust that support open dialogue on diversity and inclusion.
2. Implement and expand education on unconscious bias.
3. Share best practices with each other, including lessons learned from unsuccessful practices.

By working with the other pledge signatories across the United States, AT&T demonstrates our belief that we can cultivate meaningful change in our society by encouraging all of us to work together toward understanding.

“At its core, diversity is not about tolerating our differences – it’s about understanding them. And that requires a commitment to honest and open dialogue. I’m proud to work with my fellow CEOs to help make that a reality in the workplace.”

RANDALL STEPHENSON
CHAIRMAN & CEO
AT AT&T, DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION ARE DELIBERATE

We consciously create an environment in which employees can thrive – without fear that their differences will impede growth. That means focusing on four areas that constitute AT&T: our people, our communities, our customers and our suppliers. By fostering diversity and inclusion in these areas, we make AT&T a great place to work for our employees, a contributing and relevant member of our community, a more innovative company for our customers and a champion of diversity for our suppliers. And by maintaining this focus, we encourage other organizations to do the same.

EMPLOYEES
Diversity and inclusion start on the inside. As a company built on innovation, AT&T understands that a variety of viewpoints broadens the scope of possibility. We are a mix of generations, genders and cultures. We each have a unique background and range of experience. When all of us bring all of who we are to work, we become a team of minds that far exceeds what we can do alone. We also attract others eager to join a company that not only encourages authenticity, but believes it is essential to growth as individuals and as a company.
We’ve maintained a diverse workforce even as we’ve transformed our business and organizational structure over the past three years.

Our workforce is over 30 percent female and over 40 percent people of color, which is similar to other technology, media and telecommunications companies. Of note, our number of black employees is nearly 10 percent higher than the average for these companies and our number of Hispanic/Latino employees is about 6 percent greater.

Global employee count excludes DIRECTV and SKY employees located in Latin America.

Our global team of diverse, talented, committed people is essential to our success. Each of us brings a wealth of insight shaped by race, culture, nationality, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity and more. That’s why our goals for diversity and inclusion reach around the world.

We also recognize that different cultures have differing definitions of diversity and inclusion, so our strategy is flexible enough to adapt to those differences. We have an advantage when we move into new markets because we have employees who represent those cultures and guide us in the best approach to the new customer base. As we have expanded our presence in Mexico, Latin America, Europe, the Middle East and Asian Pacific countries, we have adapted our diversity and inclusion principles to create benefits and policies that make AT&T one of the best places to work in those countries – for all of us.
The rallying cry for the diversity and inclusion initiative at AT&T Mexico says everything: “We built our diverse and inclusive culture together.” Our people are fundamental to our success. The goal of making AT&T the best place to work in Mexico has inspired more visible employee networking based on retaining current talent and attracting new generations of talent.

In addition to the work of Mujeres en acción, employees in Mexico started several programs to promote understanding and perform community service. Diversidad Generacional brings different generations together, taking advantage of the strengths of each, with education and networking opportunities. Agente de cambio promotes a culture of social responsibility through volunteer projects in the community. Alianza LGBT conducts activities to support the LGBT community in Mexico and participates in awareness and training projects that promote LGBT inclusion. AT&T IncluyéndoTE fosters a culture of inclusion for individuals with disabilities by changing perceptions and collaborating with other associations that serve people with disabilities.

AT&T Mexico creates benefits for the communities we serve. By reinforcing the identity of our employees, we not only create a positive work environment – we also inspire each other to take positive action.

MEXICO RECOGNITION:

See Page 30 for detailed descriptions of our employee networks.
Vrio, the holding company for DIRECTV in Latin America and SKY in Brazil, operates in 11 countries, serving nearly 13.6 million customers across the region. This diversity is powerful, and when harnessed correctly, it can open our minds to unique ways of solving challenges.

Creating an environment of inclusion in which a diverse group of talented individuals can achieve their full potential is hard work, yet we pursue it with vigor – working across cultures, geographies and languages to create something stronger together.

Piedra, Papel, Tijera (PPT), our award-winning volunteer program, is one of the ways we foster a culture of inclusion. Since 2009, 11,740 employees across the region have carried out over 200 volunteer missions, contributing 101,533 hours of service to their communities. In 2017, Vrio launched Mujeres de LATAM, an initiative that focuses on supporting and accelerating the professional development of women through education and practical experience.

LATIN AMERICA RECOGNITION:
- Recognized by the Great Place to Work organization in 2017 as:
  - Best Place to Work in Ecuador, Ranked No. 6
  - Best Place to Work in Argentina, Ranked No. 10
  - Best Place to Work in Chile, Ranked No. 17
To maintain a diverse, inclusive workforce, attracting and retaining talent from a range of backgrounds must be a priority. We actively participate in job fairs, conferences, social media, webinars and other recruiting opportunities around the world. We also encourage multicultural graduates to pursue careers with AT&T in college and university programs in the U.S. as well as abroad. Our recruiting focus is to attract qualified people who share our values, period.
HBCU Unlimited

Historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs) are vital to our talent pipeline. In 2017, we continued to strengthen our relationship with these renowned institutions in exciting new ways through a program called HBCU Unlimited.

The program, created in partnership with the TV One network, celebrated the immense passion that HBCU students, alumni and supporters have for their alma maters by capturing their testimonials on camera. From current students to famous graduates of Howard University, Clark Atlanta University, Spelman College and others, these riveting vignettes appeared on multiple TV One platforms and gained traction on social media.

Joining forces with veterans

From 2013 to 2017, our goal for hiring veterans and their family members increased from 5,000 to 20,000 by the end of 2020. With 14,000 veterans hired since 2013, we’re well on our way to the goal.

We encourage veteran candidates to meet with an adviser from the AT&T Veterans employee group to learn about career opportunities, the transition process and our supportive culture. By establishing a transition timeline, we help translate military skills to a meaningful civilian career, with resources and advice at every milestone.

For military families, we offer flexibility and services to help them at home while their loved ones serve. We also have tools to help them find jobs near military installations.

Connecting women with careers

Women at AT&T are instrumental in shaping the future of global connection. AT&T women employees impact all areas of the business, and they’re known for going above and beyond the job to network with and mentor other women.

Our Women Who Inspire content series celebrates women making a difference in their communities and the world. Their leadership inspires us to work smarter and continue to create opportunities for women in science, technology, engineering and math.

Through thoughtful recruiting ads, social media and search engine marketing, we actively recruit women in technology. Online events such as the #WomenTalkTech Twitter chat feature AT&T employees and industry influencers. The most recent chat, with 232 active chatters, generated 12 million impressions that reached 1.6 million targeted viewers.
The demand for top candidates from diverse backgrounds is high – and we know they have great options. That’s why we launched our social campaign #lifeatATT, where our employees share their unique stories about what it’s like to work here. By sharing ourselves, we help others understand the real-life experience that all of us share.

When Chairman and CEO Randall Stephenson delivered the keynote address at our 2016 Employee Resource Group conference, he urged us to engage in dialogue with each other to help understand our similarities and differences.

In response, we created Conversations of Understanding, a program that brings teams together to discuss their personal stories in ways not normally experienced in a work environment. These conversations are opportunities to have open and honest dialogue to gain awareness of how our personal experiences shape who we are.

While the nature of the conversations is up to employees, basic ground rules guide the process: listen, avoid defensive and contradictory responses, ask questions to understand, show respect and thank team members for being open in sharing their stories. The key to successful conversations is full participation and inclusion of all dimensions of diversity: race, gender, sexual identity, generation, disability and more. As people feel more comfortable sharing their experiences, listeners grow in understanding – a key to creating an inclusive workplace for everyone.

These candid conversations are among the many tools and strategies outlined in our newly developed Tolerance to Understanding (T2U) Resource Guide. Using the guide’s framework, employees are expanding their knowledge, talking with colleagues and getting involved with different communities. By personalizing their use of the T2U resources, AT&T employees are taking charge of their role in strengthening our inclusive culture.
Another response to our chairman’s challenge was the adoption of a grassroots initiative focused on diversity and inclusion: DINE!

Sparked by Rachel Simon, a vice president in finance, the DINE! concept is that four to five employees who are different in some way – race, religion, upbringing, gender, culture, etc. – go to lunch and openly talk about their backgrounds and how that affects their views on life. Lunch is casual, Dutch treat, and conversation is the only requirement. The goal is to create a welcoming, inclusive, safe space where participants leave judgments and biases behind and open themselves to understand others’ experiences. With more than 250 lunches so far, thousands of people have participated. Our goal is 100 percent team participation – and we’re on our way!
MAKING AT&T A GREAT PLACE FOR ALL OF US TO WORK

The GPTW – Great Place to Work – movement focuses on creating a world-class culture with high trust and high engagement for everyone associated with AT&T. As we successfully recognize and reward our employees, they better represent us in our interactions with customers, suppliers and the community. This gives us the confidence and inventiveness to create the best entertainment and communications experiences in the world.

BEST WORKPLACES FOR DIVERSITY
For the second year, global research and consulting firm Great Place to Work and Fortune named AT&T one of the Best Workplaces for Diversity.

2017 FORTUNE 100 BEST COMPANIES TO WORK FOR
For the second year in a row, Fortune confirmed something we all know: AT&T is one of the 2017 Fortune 100 Best Companies to Work For.

DIVERSITYINC TOP 50 COMPANIES FOR DIVERSITY
For the 17th straight year, we were named to the prestigious DiversityInc Top 50 Companies for Diversity list. AT&T has been on the list since its inception, a pioneer among businesses that recognize the value of diversity and inclusion. Every year, more and more companies attempt to join this elite group. In 2017, over 1,800 companies participated. The list is developed exclusively from corporate survey submissions. Companies are evaluated within the context of their own industries. To be considered for a spot in the DiversityInc Top 50, a company must score above average in these areas: talent pipeline, talent development, leadership accountability and supplier diversity.

NATIONAL BUSINESS INCLUSION CONSORTIUM BEST-OF-THE-BEST
We proudly accepted a Best-of-the-Best award in 2017. Uniting the nation’s leading business diversity organizations, the Best-of-the-Best event recognizes outstanding achievement in promoting cross-segment diversity and inclusion. Only companies achieving industry-leading results across all diverse segments are eligible to receive this prestigious designation from the National Business Inclusion Consortium, a coalition of national diverse business organizations spearheaded by the National Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce (NGLCC) that includes the United States Black Chambers, Inc., United States Business Leadership Network, United States Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, United States Pan Asian American Chamber of Commerce, WEConnect International and Women’s Business Enterprise National Council.

See Appendix A for a full list of 2017 awards.
Employee groups are vital to achieving an inclusive company. Our 12 employee resource groups (ERGs) and employee networks (ENs) grew in membership and importance this year, and we focused on elevating the importance of these networks in non-U.S. locations. The continued growth of employee networks globally is a testament to the importance of our efforts.

Employee Resource Groups Overview

Our 12 ERGs are nonprofit 501(c)(3) groups that advance the professional development of their members, support our company's business priorities and engage in community service. They represent a range of cultural populations, including women, generations, veterans, individuals with disabilities and members of the LGBTQ community. In 2017, our ERGs had more than 109,000 members.

Employee Networks Overview

ENs focus on a common interest area of their members, a professional certification program, or the career development of an employee group in a specific business unit or region. Our seven international and five domestic ENs are created and managed by employees, but do not operate as nonprofit entities. In 2017, we provided cross-functional support for 12 employee networks with more than 24,000 memberships.

• Seven chapters

Mission:
To help global members identify ways to better leverage their talent, connections and engagements within its organization, community and ERG initiatives to drive leadership and recognition opportunities.

2017 Initiatives:
• Partnered with AT&T Aspire and DECA to host OASiS Let’s Start, to equip high school students with the tools and resources to understand the basics of launching a startup business.
• Hosted OASiS Talks, which promoted inclusion within our diverse employee base by showcasing individual journeys that led to greater understanding of the strength of diversity.
• Created OASiS Ignite, a program that leveraged social innovation to address the gap in knowledge of launching new ideas in the workplace.
• Created the OASiS #CONNECT platform for AT&T business units to educate employees about their portfolio strategy in alignment with the company’s priorities.

2017 Initiatives:
• Celebrated 30 years of pride with an anniversary gala featuring a keynote by John Stankey, AT&T Entertainment Group CEO, and a special video message from our chairman, Randall Stephenson. Also integrated the AT&T We Are Bold campaign – a Pride Season collaboration with AT&T Entertainment Group. The campaign drove 260 million media impressions, including 220 million social media impressions and 45,000 hashtags from events and LEAGUE social media influencers.
• Awarded LEAGUE Foundation LGBTQ scholarships totaling $34,500, a 23 percent increase over 2016.
• Supported member advocacy training to encourage members to speak out against legislative issues negatively impacting the LGBTQ community. Members lobbied state officials and testified in front of legislative committees against bathroom bills and many of the other 80-plus bills across the country that would negatively impact the community.

Mission:
To promote innovation and inclusion in a supportive environment for LGBTQ employees – championing diversity by developing transformational leaders within our company and communities.

- Social media impressions exceeded 10 million.
- The overall satisfaction ratings for the conference were the highest ever: 98.4 percent.
DAY OF SERVICE: PUTTING INSPIRATION TO WORK

On Saturday of the 2017 ERG conference, employees demonstrated their dedication to helping the community by participating in a Day of Service.

In partnership with KaBoom!, a nonprofit organization that helps communities build playgrounds for children, over 400 employees and more than 75 family members gathered to build a playground for the Park South YMCA in South Dallas.
ERG IN ACTION AWARDS 2017

Each year, we recognize six ERG initiatives for making a difference for our company, our employees or our communities. Congratulations to these worthy organizations on their outstanding impact!

NATIONAL WINNERS:

ICAE
Spirit of Warmth: A No-Sew Blanket-Making Initiative
Donated 350 blankets to various Native American organizations – a culturally significant project connecting Native American organizations to AT&T; engaged 370 volunteers who contributed 1,227 hours to the initiative.

OXYGEN
Kid Tips
Developed program to increase cybersecurity for parents and schools; launched website to provide tips and resources to help keep kids safe; engaged 860 employees who contributed 570 volunteer hours.

WOMEN OF AT&T
Cultivating Lifelong Learners
Developed webinars and programs for continuous learning; presented 22 web conferencing sessions to more than 10,000 attendees; volunteers contributed more than 10,500 hours.

LOCAL WINNERS:

OASIS – TEXAS
STEAM Connectors Program
Connected students in North Texas with science, technology, engineering, art and math; contributed more than 2,000 volunteer hours for all workshops; the program continues to grow.

THE NETWORK – ILLINOIS
Teacher Appreciation Week/RealMenRead
Program highlighted positive male role models in underserved communities; cultivated future talent for AT&T and technology development; 27 volunteers contributed a total of 110 volunteer hours.

WOMEN OF AT&T – MARYLAND
The Power of Us! eCycle Program
Technology recycle program helped launch the group’s first scholarship program; engaged 1,000 employees, collected 4,500 devices, contributed 2,500 volunteer hours and raised more than $21,000.
COMMUNITIES
We recognize that diversity and inclusion must extend into the communities in which we live and do business. Supporting the community is not only good business – it’s the right thing to do. Our commitment to philanthropy has been strong since our founding. And our employees’ active participation is crucial to improving life for underserved populations including seniors, women, youth, people with disabilities and low-income families. From education programs for all ages to leading the way in assistive technology, our goal is to expand opportunity and empower diverse populations.
BRINGING HIDDEN FIGURES TO LIGHT
To celebrate the contributions of black Americans in STEM fields, AT&T sponsored students in urban areas to see the film “Hidden Figures,” the story of three black women mathematicians who were instrumental in NASA’s campaign to launch astronaut John Glenn into space in 1962. In Los Angeles, we treated 500 students to free screenings of the film, along with a panel discussion on the importance of studying science, technology, engineering and math. Similar events took place in Dallas, Atlanta, Chicago and Oakland. Altogether, more than 5,800 students attended. We shared content on social media that garnered 226,200 impressions and 1,200 engagements.

Response to the story was overwhelmingly positive. We also engaged social media to spotlight our own AT&T “hidden figures” – black women who lead our business segments.

LAUNCHING OPPORTUNITY THROUGH OUR LAUNCHABILITY PARTNERSHIP

Respect for all of us means finding ways to expand opportunities that align individuals with their abilities. Working with community organizations that facilitate that goal allows us to broaden our view of what is possible. In summer 2017, AT&T partnered with LaunchAbility, a job placement agency for adults with cognitive disabilities, to pilot an internship program for adults with autism. The three-month program placed four interns at our global headquarters in Dallas. On-the-job training helped these individuals learn appropriate workplace conduct and more practical skills like email etiquette and interview tips. An on-site LaunchAbility coach supported supervisors, departments and interns throughout the summer.

Explore LaunchAbility from one intern's perspective.

KEEPING THE FAITH WITH INSPIRED MOBILITY

At the intersection of mobility, faith and inspiration, the AT&T Inspired Mobility movement reflects the powerful ways in which mobile devices shape our lives. In 2017, we sponsored online and in-person conversations inviting the public to talk about how they use mobile technology to connect with what inspires them. We featured hip-hop pioneer Joseph “Rev Run” Simmons and his wife Justine in a fireside chat at the Essence Festival, which was the most live-streamed event of the entire festival. We also encouraged community members to share inspirational thoughts, photos, memes or videos via social media using #InspiredMobility.

Learn more about Inspired Mobility.

Read what Rev Run and wife Justine Simmons have to say about faith, family and the evolution of entertainment.
We are proud that our commitment to the community made a positive impact at the state and local levels in 2017. The impact of our support in California and Illinois are just a few examples.

HOMEBOY INDUSTRIES
CALIFORNIA
AT&T contributed $100,000 to Homeboy Industries to support solar panel training and Homeboy e-recycling programs that help formerly gang-involved and previously incarcerated men and women in Los Angeles County gain the personal strength, STEM education and vocational skills necessary to thrive in the workforce. More than 80 percent of program participants are Latino/Hispanic.

PROYECTO PASTORAL
CALIFORNIA
Proyecto Pastoral’s Promesa Boyle Heights program is a community-wide initiative to transform Los Angeles’ Boyle Heights neighborhood via a cradle-to-college-and-careers pipeline of support for children and youth. Over the course of two years, AT&T has contributed $750,000 to Proyecto to support the expansion of this program, which serves 2,300 students in grades 9–12 in two economically disadvantaged areas of Los Angeles. Retention, graduation and college access services are provided through a collective impact approach including an initiative for local opportunity youth, tiered supports for all youth and high-intensity academic and wellness interventions for the highest-risk youth. More than 95 percent of the students served are Latino/Hispanic.

FRIENDS OF THE CHILDREN
ILLINOIS
In 2017, AT&T contributed $250,000 to support the launch of the Friends of the Children (Friends) Chicago chapter. Friends works with schools and foster care systems to identify youth ages 4–6 facing significant risks, and to dedicate resources to assist them throughout their childhood. Each child receives one-on-one support from a salaried, professional mentor – a “Friend” – for 16 hours each month from kindergarten through high school graduation. One hundred percent of the students served are black.

See Appendix B for an expanded list of community initiatives by state.
AT&T also championed initiatives at the national level to encourage kids to stay in school, spark interest in technology careers, support entrepreneurship among underserved communities, and much more.

AT&T ASPIRE ACCELERATOR

AT&T Aspire Accelerator collaborates with diverse (as defined by geography, culture or gender) entrepreneurs in the education technology space to support new products and services to help students succeed in school and in life. This program has contributed to the growth of 19 early-stage ed-tech companies, including 37 percent that are minority led – and in 2017, the cohort was 50 percent minority led.

TOTAL ALUMNI DIVERSITY

19 COMPANIES

- 58% WOMEN LED
- 37% MINORITY LED
- 53% FROM NONTRADITIONAL STARTUP HOTBED

2017 COHORT DIVERSITY

*See Appendix C for a full list of AT&T Aspire Accelerator companies.

ALL STAR CODE

Since 2015, AT&T has funded All Star Code – a youth education program that connects high school boys of color to the tech industry through mentorship, industry exposure and intensive training in computer science. As of the end of 2017, we have channeled $700,000 toward focused efforts in New York City and Pittsburgh, with planned expansion to other regions in 2019.

BLACK GIRLS CODE

In 2017, we contributed $350,000 to fund the launch of a new chapter of Black Girls CODE in Houston and strengthen the programs in Dallas and Miami. Black Girls CODE programs include local workshops and events covering such topics as web design, game development, robotics, mobile design and coding languages such as Java, Ruby and Python. Events include a one-week technology summer camp and a girls-only hackathon in collaboration with other regional girls’ organizations. Black Girls CODE has a reach of more than 3,000 students, with the expectation of reaching 10,000 in the next five years. Some alumni of Black Girls CODE participate in the AT&T Aspire Scholarship program with Udacity online learning.

DISABILITY MENTORING DAY

In October 2017, employees participated in an AT&T Aspire mentoring event, Disability Mentoring Day. AT&T hosted the event in collaboration with the American Association of People with Disabilities. Disability Mentoring Day is a national effort to promote career development for kids with disabilities. We brought high school kids with disabilities to the AT&T Forum in Washington, D.C., for a great day of brainstorming, discussion and sharing opinions about their future.
GENESYS WORKS
AT&T has invested $6.5 million in Genesys Works since 2012 to help provide underserved high school students with hands-on work experience and career training. In 2017, we contributed $500,000 to the organization. Genesys Works offers an intensive summer training program with professional and technical skills development as well as career coaching. After the training, students begin a yearlong paid internship at companies such as AT&T. For the 2017–2018 school year, AT&T hosted 14 Genesys Works interns in the Bay Area, Chicago, Houston and Washington, D.C.

GIRLS IN TECHNOLOGY
AT&T participated in the Girls in Technology Mentor-Protégé Program, a program designed to inspire the next generation of women to be interested in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM). Protégés and mentors meet once a month for five months and participate in activities focused on leadership development, networking and developing strategies for success in a STEM career. Our director of public affairs, Celeste Carrasco, shared her experience as a “girl in technology” as part of a panel discussion that kicked off the 2017 program session.

GLAAD MEDIA AWARDS LA AND NY
The GLAAD Media Awards recognize and honor media for their fair, accurate and inclusive representations of the LGBTQ community and the issues that affect their lives. They also fund GLAAD’s work to amplify stories from the LGBTQ community that build support for equality. AT&T was a Platinum Sponsor for the awards.

GLSEN RESPECT AWARDS LA AND NY
The GLSEN Respect Awards, introduced in 2004 and held annually in Los Angeles and New York, showcase the work of students, educators, individuals and corporations who have made a significant impact on the lives of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer and questioning (LGBTQ) youth. AT&T was a Freshman Sponsor for the awards.
HRC FOUNDATION’S TIME TO THRIVE YOUTH WELL-BEING CONFERENCE
Once again, AT&T was proud to serve as a Presenting Sponsor of this transformative Human Rights Campaign (HRC) conference, which focuses on best practices for youth-serving professionals to ensure safety and inclusion for LGBTQ youth.

HUMAN RIGHTS CAMPAIGN (HRC) NATIONAL DINNER
The HRC National Dinner brings together more than 3,600 HRC members, friends, families and allies for an evening of celebration and inspiration. Featuring a cocktail reception, an extensive silent and live auction, an elegant dinner, live entertainment and thought-provoking speakers and guests, the HRC National Dinner attracts the nation's top figures in entertainment and politics. AT&T was a Diamond Sponsor of the event.

JOBS FOR AMERICA’S GRADUATES
Since 2008, AT&T and the AT&T Foundation have provided over $11.4 million in funding to Jobs for America's Graduates (JAG) and its local affiliates. In 2017, AT&T contributed $3.5 million to JAG to allow the national nonprofit to add new schools and expand existing programs through its 34 JAG State Affiliates with proven success records of keeping kids in school.

NGLCC INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS & LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE
The National Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce (NGLCC) is the voice for the nation's 1.4 million LGBT business owners and the $1.7 trillion those enterprises add to the national economy each year. NGLCC enjoys the support and participation of more than 190 corporate partners as well as prominent executive leadership in striving to promote pro-business and LGBT-inclusive policies. The conference attracts more than 1,000 entrepreneurs, corporate decision-makers, affiliate chamber leaders and government officials from across the country and around the world. AT&T was a proud sponsor of the conference at the Vice President level.

THE CIVIC 50
The Civic 50, awarded by the Points of Light organization, identifies and recognizes companies for their commitment to improving the quality of life in the communities where they do business. For the third time in five years, AT&T has been ranked as the top community-minded communications company on this prestigious list. AT&T has been on the list each year since Civic 50's inception in 2012.
PER SCHOLAS
In 2017, AT&T contributed $300,000 to Per Scholas to support national technology training programs that serve more than 1,000 low-income, unemployed and underemployed individuals. The funding will support the growth of Per Scholas’ national IT training program as well as a collaboration with CodeBridge, which prepares graduates for mid-skill IT and web development positions.

TECHBRIDGE GIRLS (TBG)
TBG launched in 2000 as a nonprofit program to expand academic and career options for girls in science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) in Seattle, Washington, D.C.; and the San Francisco Bay area. ChangeMakers, the signature model, is a yearlong after-school program that encourages girls to explore STEM concepts and career options as they develop a community impact project. We contributed $25,000 in funding in 2017 and will support the Techbridge Girls’ ChangeMakers Community Showcase events in spring of 2018 to celebrate the accomplishments of participating girls in each region. The U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, Education and Related Agencies highlighted TBG as an example of a STEM program that introduces girls, especially girls of color, to role models and mentors from STEM workplaces.

TREVORLIVE NY AND LA
Founded in 1998 by the creators of the Academy Award-winning short film “Trevor,” The Trevor Project is the leading national organization providing crisis intervention and suicide prevention services to lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and questioning (LGBTQ) young people ages 13-24. AT&T was a Platinum Sponsor for TrevorLIVE, a signature semiannual fundraising event offering a celebratory evening of impact and awareness for the suicide prevention resources and crisis intervention services offered by The Trevor Project.

YEAR UP
Year Up is a nonprofit that provides urban young adults with the skills, experience and support they need to reach their potential. Year Up serves young adults ages 18–24 who have earned a high school diploma or GED but are otherwise disconnected from the economic mainstream. Of those students, 51 percent identify as black/African-American and 27 percent identify as Hispanic/Latino. In 2017, AT&T hosted 18 Year Up interns in the Atlanta and Miami offices to provide them with firsthand experience in sales and customer support.
CUSTOMERS
At AT&T, we take “all of us” literally. As a global company, we connect with a multinational, multicultural customer base. Serving customers in the spirit of inclusion can mean something as simple as interacting with customers in their preferred language or as multifaceted as providing culturally relevant products, content and services. We also offer a range of communication tools for people with speech, hearing, vision and mobility differences. AT&T advertising and marketing intentionally reflect every demographic group and promote positive representations of their members.
CATERING TO OUR CUSTOMERS

Here are some of the many ways that we connect with our customers through language and culture, communication tools, and advertising and marketing.

LANGUAGES:
160+ LANGUAGES SPOKEN

EMPLOYEES:
3,000+ AT&T REPS WHO SERVE OUR CUSTOMERS IN LANGUAGES OTHER THAN ENGLISH

RETAIL STORES:
750+ U.S. RETAIL STORES WHERE EMPLOYEES CAN ASSIST IN SPANISH

WEBSITES: MULTIPLE LANGUAGES
- att.com: OUR FULL-SERVICE ENGLISH SITE
- espanol.att.com: OUR FULL-SERVICE SPANISH SITE
- att.com/world: SELF-SERVICE OPTIONS IN RUSSIAN, POLISH AND FIVE ASIAN LANGUAGES
Connecting with Those We Connect

Customer outreach is an important way to connect with our increasingly diverse customer base. Our integrated program includes direct mail, email, radio, TV, online content, social media and retail point-of-purchase – all culturally relevant and in the appropriate language. Customer events in 2017 represented a cross-section of tradition and identity.

We Are Bold

AT&T has a long-standing commitment to the LGBTQ community and a strong record of support. In 2017, our fifth annual Live Proud campaign promoted a message of strength and courage: We Are Bold. In partnership with GLAAD, we encouraged consumers to use #WeAreBold on social media, with each mention effecting a $1 donation toward a fundraising goal. AT&T also sponsored Pride festivals in 17 markets. By having a picture made in front of a We Are Bold backdrop, participants also effected a $1 donation. The phenomenally successful campaign achieved 40 percent awareness among LGBTQ individuals online and received the Association of National Advertisers (ANA) Multicultural Award for Excellence in the LGBT category. It also received the American Advertising Federation Mosaic Award for best multicultural digital campaign. We raised a total of $45,000 for GLAAD, while raising awareness of the organization’s work.

SPONSORING ASIAN FESTIVALS

MAKING WAVES AT KCON

AT&T celebrated the Korean Wave convention, KCON, with entertainment showcases on both the east and west coasts. We hosted exclusive K-Pop artist meet & greets, including KCON’s first-ever meet & greet for SF9, a VIXX fan meeting exclusively for AT&T customers at KCON, and artist booth visits by GFriend in New York and Cosmic Girls in LA. Total 1:1 engagements for all KCON events in both markets over five days was 40,713.

RUNNING WITH THE ROOSTER

Building and nurturing relationships with the Asian community means celebrating the heritage of a culture that is itself diverse. This year’s Lunar New Year, marking the Year of the Fire Rooster, sparked release of a custom game, Fire Rooster Run, in which players took the Fire Rooster through an Asian-themed course via AT&T-activated mobile devices. The Lunar New Year campaign drove 171 sales – a record-breaking total. Engagement with the Fire Rooster Run was also significant, with 1:1 engagement of 13,647 for three Lunar New Year events over six days, or 2,275 engagements per day.
EMBRACING HERITAGE EVENTS ON THE WEST COAST

Fall 2017 brought sponsorship of two significant Asian heritage events in the U.S. – the San Francisco Autumn Moon Festival, which 150,000 people attended, and the Los Angeles Korean Festival, with 80,000 attendees. The Autumn Moon Festival, celebrated by Chinese, Korean, Vietnamese and other people of Asian descent, is an opportunity to gather the entire Asian community and celebrate its diverse cultures. The Los Angeles Korean Festival, which promotes Korean culture and traditions, also embraces the entire multicultural community. AT&T featured the Augmented Reality (AR) Trivia Game, which took attendees through an AR experience that educated them on Chinese and Korean DIRECTV programming.

IMPACT:
For all seven Asian sponsorship events, over a total of 17 days in three markets, the campaign achieved these results:

- 2.7 million attendance
- 253.8 million earned PR impressions
- 69.8 million social media impressions
- 3.5 million social media engagements
- 120.1 million paid sponsorship advertising media impressions
- 92,000 total, 5,418 per day, 1:1 engagement
EXPERIENCE MORE

Our innovative AT&T Experience More campaign celebrated how blind and visually impaired individuals experience more through their actions, passions and use of technology. The 10-week social campaign included a content series, national sweepstakes and meet-and-greet events with accessibility training at AT&T retail stores. Former Dallas Cowboys running back Emmitt Smith kicked off the project on the AUDIENCE network’s “Rich Eisen Show,” inviting viewers to participate in Experience More.

The campaign featured Aira, an assistive technology that connects blind users to a series of network agents via smart glasses. The agents see what the blind person is looking at by means of a small camera on the glasses, and provide real-time directions, feedback or assistance. AT&T provides dedicated network availability for the Aira service – the two companies are partners in bringing this game-changing service to the blind community.

Retail store events, videos and podcasts showcased some of the exceptional individuals and their determination to Experience More. AT&T Campaign Ambassadors included these barrier-breaking people:

CHRISTINE HA
First blind contestant and Season 3 winner of TV’s “Master Chef.” Christine received the 2014 Helen Keller Personal Achievement Award from the American Foundation for the Blind.

ERICH MANSER
Para-athlete with awards that include an Ironman world record. Erich completed the Boston Marathon with the assistance of Aira technology and a sighted guide.

MICHAEL HINGSON
Michael escaped the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001, descending 78 flights of stairs with the help of his guide dog, Roselle. He advocates for the visually impaired to obtain assistive technologies.

ERIK WEIHENMAYER
Eric is a noted adventurer, athlete, activist and motivational speaker and was the first blind person to climb Mount Everest. In 2008, he completed his quest to climb all of the Seven Summits – the tallest peaks on the seven continents.

To acknowledge the capabilities of the broader AT&T community, we asked blind and visually impaired individuals to share their own stories about how they Experience More for a chance to win a national sweepstakes. Winners received the once-in-a-lifetime experience of VIP treatment at a Dallas Cowboys game with Emmitt Smith acting as the Aira agent, doing a play-by-play of the game.

2017 AT&T DIVERSITY & INCLUSION ANNUAL REPORT   | 52
INDEPENDENT VOICES FOR A DIVERSE AUDIENCE

Our commitment to customer inclusion means delivering original content for every audience.

Together, AT&T and DIRECTV provide access to more than 550 channels, including networks that reach a range of generations, cultural backgrounds, and Spanish and other language speakers. We are continually evolving our roster of programming, adding 30 independent channels over the past two years, including the award-winning and exclusive AUDIENCE Network. Through Otter Media, a joint venture between AT&T and the Chernin Group, we are investing in the next generation of independent creators by exposing them to diverse audiences via more platforms.

Connecting all of us to programming that we relate to and can learn from is an important part of our diversity and inclusion mission. It’s also good business.
Just as a diversity of minds sparks innovation in our workforce, diverse suppliers bring fresh ideas and approaches that help us meet our customer needs. Our goal is to connect diverse businesses with opportunities to provide products and services to AT&T around the world. Their efforts help us deliver world-class products and services to meet our customers’ diverse needs and maintain our position in the communications and entertainment industries as an innovative leader.
OUR SUPPLIER DIVERSITY PROGRAM

Our programs have increased and enhanced the quality of participation of businesses owned by minorities, women, veterans and LGBTQ individuals. We proudly work with companies that take diversity and inclusion as seriously as we do.

In 2017, AT&T continued its legacy of posting extraordinary supplier diversity spend – 25.2 percent against our corporate goal of 21.5 percent. This represents $14.4 billion in spend with Minority Business Enterprises (MBEs), Women Business Enterprises (WBEs), Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned Business Enterprises (SDVBOEs) and LGBT Business Enterprises (LGBTBEs) – a $181 million spend increase with diverse suppliers over our 2016 results.

1. Conducting strategic outreach to identify prospective diverse suppliers and providing support to drive new business.
2. Working with supplier diversity organizations to provide business development through educational scholarships, mentoring and technical training.
3. Encouraging our Prime Suppliers to maximize the inclusion of diverse suppliers as subcontractors. Prime Suppliers are required to provide an annual plan to outline the participation of diverse suppliers.
4. Working closely with internal business partners to educate them on our supplier diversity program and position diverse suppliers for opportunities within different business units.

ENGAGING DIVERSE BUSINESSES TO ACHIEVE EXCELLENCE

MOBILITY OPERATIONS DIVERSITY FORUM
In September 2017, the AT&T Mobility Operations Support Team (MOST) partnered with AT&T Supplier Diversity to host an information session with simultaneous webcasting to reach diverse businesses across the country who were interested in contract work for cell tower services. The event reached businesses in San Ramon, CA; Dallas, TX; Chicago, IL; Atlanta, GA; Bedminster, NJ; and Hanover, MD. More than 200 firms registered for the event.

NATIONAL GAY & LESBIAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE (NGLCC) ANNUAL CONFERENCE
In 2017, we increased our engagement in this four-day LGBT leadership conference, which attracted over 1,200 entrepreneurs, corporate decision-makers and affiliate chamber leaders. The event provided AT&T the opportunity to meet with the organization’s certified LGBT firms, and to expand our impact by hosting the LGBT Biz Pitch competition, which invited contestants to compete for a $25,000 cash prize plus an additional $25,000 of business consulting. Our team at the conference included External Affairs AVP Scott Saperstein, who provided the sponsor’s remarks and served as co-mentor with AT&T Supplier Diversity Senior Manager Lisa Castillo.

The team interviewed suppliers during the business matchmaker session and participated in the NGLCC Marketplace Expo. A California-based security firm was selected for a yearlong mentoring program designed to provide expert guidance and industry insights to support the firm’s business goals.
U.S. HISPANIC CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NATIONAL CONFERENCE

AT&T sponsored the 2017 U.S. Hispanic Chamber of Commerce National Conference, which brought attendees together for three days of business sessions and networking. We were again inducted into the Million Dollar Club, which recognized our commitment to minority- and women-owned businesses through our work with Hispanic suppliers. The AT&T Supplier Diversity team also participated in a conference business matchmaking event that provided an opportunity to meet one on one with some of the largest Latino-owned businesses in the country.

WOMEN’S BUSINESS ENTERPRISE NATIONAL CONFERENCE

In June, AT&T joined the Women’s Business Enterprise Council (WBENC) in Las Vegas for its annual conference. The conference theme, 20 Years Looking Back to the Future, focused on WBENC’s many accomplishments over two decades of service to women-owned businesses and their corporate partners. AT&T is proud to be a founding member of WBENC, and we are pleased to look to the organization for certification, referrals and program support.

Our supplier diversity team conducts comprehensive outreach to connect with hundreds of diverse businesses across the United States. The following organizations play an important role in our supplier strategy:

MINORITY BUSINESS ENTERPRISES (MBE)
- National Minority Supplier Development Council (NMSDC) and its affiliates
- U.S. Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (USHCC)
- U.S. Pan American Asian Chamber of Commerce (USPAACC)
- U.S. Black Chambers, Inc. (USBC)

WOMEN BUSINESS ENTERPRISES (WBE)
- Women’s Business Enterprise National Council (WBENC) and its Regional Partner Organizations (RPO)
- Women Presidents’ Education Organization (WPEO)

SERVICE-DISABLED VETERAN-OWNED BUSINESS ENTERPRISES (SDVBOE)
- The National Veteran-Owned Business Association (NaVOBA)
- Disabled Veteran Business Alliance (DVBA)
- National Veteran Business Development Council (NVBDC)

LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL, TRANSGENDER BUSINESS ENTERPRISES (LGBTBE)
- National Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce (NGLCC)

Connecting with our communities is a vital part of our business, and we’re proud of the following initiatives that made a positive impact at the local and state levels in 2017. From promoting STEM careers in high-poverty high schools to providing help and hope for homeless veterans, our commitment to diversity and inclusion is empowering our neighbors and enriching our communities.

ALABAMA: Supported a robotics lab that will enhance the STEM curriculum for students with disabilities using a hands-on engineering project to promote interest in science, technology, engineering and math careers.

ARIZONA: Supported the STEM Mechanical and Underwater Robotics program to provide 76 low-income high school students with hands-on STEM activities, along with lectures, workshops and experiments in science, engineering and math to aid in high school success and post-secondary education preparedness.

CALIFORNIA: Supported the empowerment and development of 21st century skills for young women in Los Angeles County. Girls Build LA challenges young women to solve problems in their communities while building skills that will prepare them for college, career and life.

CALIFORNIA: Supported solar panel training and Homeboy eRecycling programs that help formerly gang-involved and previously incarcerated men and women gain the personal strength, STEM education and vocational skills necessary to thrive in the workforce.

CALIFORNIA: Supported the expansion of the Promesa Boyle Heights program serving 2,300 students in grades 9–12 in two high-poverty high schools in Los Angeles. Retention, graduation and college access services are provided through a collective impact approach that includes an initiative for local opportunity youth, tiered supports for all youth, and high-intensity academic and wellness interventions for the highest-risk youth.

FLORIDA: Supported Black Girls CODE educational programs in Miami and other locations in the U.S. serving underrepresented girls in the technology and computer science fields.

GEORGIA: Supported youth with film production opportunities and digital resources. Through the program, students learn technical and professional skills in production while generating videos around community issues and gaining exposure to careers in digital media and film.

GEORGIA: Supported the transformation of high school education through an investment in the Junior Achievement Academy (JA Academy) model providing development and direct support of a JA Academy site serving 600 under-resourced high school students in metro Atlanta during the 2017–2018 school year.
ILLINOIS: Supported a program at Northwestern University encouraging middle school girls with a passion for STEM to pursue excellence in the STEM disciplines in preparation for high school, college and beyond.

ILLINOIS: Supported matching funds for Friends of the Children’s federal Social Innovation Fund grant serving under-resourced youth in Chicago.

IOWA: Supported Family Alliance for Veterans of America’s two programs: Supportive Services for Veteran Families, which targets homeless veterans and their families as well as those veterans at risk of homelessness, and Passport to Independence, which provides housing to veterans who are homeless or disabled.

KANSAS: Supported GROW (Growing Real Opportunities for Women) in the recruitment, enrollment, mentoring and training of women in technical jobs to include HVAC, construction, industrial engineering technology, power plant technology and automotive technology.

MASSACHUSETTS: Supported the High School Mentoring Academy, where underserved high school girls in Boston develop confidence and leadership skills as they mentor younger students.

MINNESOTA: Supported Hmong American Partnership’s Youth Lead program, creating career pathways for 125 low-income Southeast Asian youth.

MISSISSIPPI: Supported hands-on opportunities for high school students to use their classroom skills in exploring various career pathways, helping them develop problem-solving skills, learn teamwork, acquire communication skills and learn time management to prepare for the workforce.

MISSOURI: Supported the Save Our Sons workforce preparedness program for underserved, predominantly black young men in the St. Louis area.

NEW JERSEY: Supported the expansion of the ASPIRA Youth Development Program serving 1,530 predominantly Latino students in grades 9–12, of whom over 50 percent are recent immigrants. The program targeted high-poverty high schools in Paterson and Jersey City, as well as other cities in the U.S., providing after-school academic and social support to help students graduate high school on time and prepare them for success in college and the workforce.

NEW YORK: Supported Project Ready, a program that provides enhanced academic and social support to high school students to prepare for postsecondary success.

NORTH CAROLINA: Supported a residential pilot STEM program for underserved and underrepresented rural high school students.
OHIO: Supported 1,668 students in grades 9–10 in three high-poverty high schools in Cleveland, where 270 of the most highly at-risk students will receive individualized case management support through City Year’s Whole School Whole Child program model to help them graduate high school on time and prepare for success in college and the workforce.

PENNSYLVANIA: Supported the Learn & Earn Summer Employment Program, which prepares underserved high school students and young adults for college and career by offering workforce readiness training, paid summer internship experiences, mentoring and case management support.

PUERTO RICO: Supported Universidad Central del Caribe Inc. by providing about 30 academic excellence and need-based scholarships to retain full-time students pursuing health profession degrees for the 2017–2018 academic year.

TEXAS: Supported expansion of Communities in Schools (CIS), San Antonio’s High School Aspire Program serving 800 predominantly Latino students in grades 9–12. CIS will place site coordinators in five high schools in San Antonio to coordinate and implement targeted interventions aimed at increasing graduation rates and improving student achievement. All students will receive individualized case-managed services.

TEXAS: Supported the expansion of Project Grad Houston’s GRADuation Aspirations program serving 1,735 predominantly Latino students in grades 9–12 from four high-poverty high schools in Houston. Thirteen Project Grad sites across Houston will provide coaching and programming services designed to increase grade-level promotion and on-time graduation, and develop student motivation and planning for college and career.

VIRGIN ISLANDS: Supported STEM projects that will give 200 students workplace-based learning opportunities through problem-solving, real-world application of STEM education concepts and development of critical thinking skills.

WASHINGTON: Supported high school retention programs serving Southeast Asian youth throughout the state.

WASHINGTON, D.C.: Supported George Washington University’s Center for Indigenous Politics and Policy, Native American Political Leadership Program and the INSPIRE Program. This program will provide 100 percent of the term costs for 26 students attending either the 2018 spring or summer semester, along with advisement to tribal leaders and program alumni as they continue their educational and professional lives.

WASHINGTON, D.C.: Supported ¡Adelante! America, a leadership development program for underserved Latino youth in grades 8–12.
