Speeds up to 1 Gigabit per Second Available on the AT&T GigaPower Network

LOS ANGELES, May 10, 2016 — AT&T<sup>1</sup> launched ultra-fast Internet service in parts of Corona, Fontana, Glendale, Riverside and surrounding communities.<sup>2</sup> Customers in area homes, apartments and small businesses will be able to get speeds up to 1 gigabit per second (Gbps).<sup>3</sup>

We previously made the AT&T GigaPower network available to tens of thousands of locations across the Los Angeles metro area, including in parts of Eastvale, Irvine, Los Angeles, Orange County and surrounding communities.

We'll continue to expand our 100% fiber AT&T GigaPower network to additional locations. Eventually, we plan to make our AT&T GigaPower presence in the Los Angeles area one of the largest in the U.S.

Internet speeds up to 1Gbps over our 100% fiber AT&T GigaPower network are blazing fast.

- Instantly access the latest online movies, music and games.
- Connect faster to the cloud, videoconferencing and more.
- Download 25 songs in 1 second, a TV show in 3 seconds or your favorite HD movie in less than 36 seconds.<sup>4</sup>

“We’ve moved quickly to bring more competition for blazing-fast Internet speeds to more parts of the Southern California area,” said Richard Porras, regional vice president-External Affairs, AT&T. “Faster speeds over the AT&T GigaPower network keep people and small businesses connected as they are accessing more content on more devices.”

“Faster access for our residents and businesses is critical to the economic vitality of our city as we compete for businesses and jobs in our area. Today’s announcement is a game changer in delivering our goals to keep our communities connected,” said Fontana Mayor Acquanetta Warren. “This expanded AT&T service will help support job growth in small business and provide fast connections for families and students at home.”
